FROM TEXAS.

An Occasional Correspondent Writes an Interesting Letter.

PARIS, TEXAS, MAY 19, 1901.

Thinking that a few days from this section might be of interest to many of the readers of The News, I will send what I think would be of general interest.

Federal court adjourned at this place the first of the month. In the Hotema case the jury found the defendant not guilty as charged in the indictment because he was insane. Seventeen full blood Cherokees on trial for murder, were acquitted. Following this trial Judge Hotema was placed on trial on another charge of witch killing, and a verdict similar to the above was rendered. I had a lengthy chat with the Judge during the last trial and found him to be a very pleasant gentleman. He conversed intelligently on every subject except witchcraft. He is well on that line and declared that the Bible would bear him out in the assertion that Witches all die and do exist. He said that Christ and the disciples had power to cast out devils (Witches) but now the power possessed in such a manner must be killed as there is no known method of expelling the Witches.

There were two hundred and twenty five old criminal cases ordered struck from the docket by Judge Bryant. These cases were from the Territory and were thrown out because this court no longer has jurisdiction over that country.

An amusing incident occurred during the Hotema trial which involved even the court with laughter. An Indian brought into court—though he may speak the English—will not do so because he knows there is an interpreter employed, and he had rather speak Cherokeean way. An Indian Judge of some note was placed on the witness stand. He had stumbled rather freely of the water and didn't care whether school kept or not, therefore he refused to "talk." Judge Bryant knew he could "talk" and ordered him to talk until he could "talk" English.

At the door the Indian turned and said: "Judge me talk now." "You go to jail" was the reply. After having spent some time behind the bars his red skinned son was brought back and placed on the stand, again. This time he was very familiar with the Queen's English and told his story. On leaving the stand he said turning to the court: "Me Judge too, heap big; me catch Judge Bryant in Nation make him talk Cherokeean, and if him to talk, me send him jail 'til him learn Cherokeean." With these words he bowed and withdrew in a very stately manner, and a roar of laughter.

District court convened here on the first Monday in April, with Judge Ben H. Denton, an Albany, Ky., boy, on bench, and is still in session. Over two hundred divorces have been granted this term. Court will probably not adjourn before some time in June as there are several murder cases yet to be tried.

Most of Lamar, county's officers and influential citizens are Kentuckians, coming from Adair, Clinton, Cumberland, Barren and Warren counties. Cumberland county is in the majority. We think old Cumberland is hard to beat and it is so.

Mr. Will K. Long, who came here from Columbia at the close of the civil war, accompanied by his brother, Judge A. B. Long, will visit Columbia and other points in Ky., in June and July. These gentlemen are among the most influential citizens of this city and county, and will, I am sure, be received with much joy by their old friends in the dear old State.

Paris is to have a street fair and carnival beginning the 21st inst and continuing four days. It is being well advertised and will bring people from all parts of this State, I. T., and Arkansas. Paris now has a Democratic Mayor for the first time in four years and it is hoped that the new Mayor will solve the water problem so thoroughly that factories and Railroad shops will come and stay.

Quite a number of Paris people went to San Antonio and El Paso, last week to catch a glimpse of President McKinley and party. They report big blow out at both places.

Farmers are much distressed about the crop. It is a total failure. Fields that were promising two weeks ago are barren. Farmers are planting the rotter fields in corn and late corn. An old settler told me yesterday that during his fifty years residence here he had never witnessed a failure in oats before. The pest is a small green bug which works at the stool of the plant, sucking it to death. Some have tried sprays but no visible benefit resulted.

The corn crop is later than it has been for twenty years but looks well considering the dry weather, there having been no rain of any consequence for about four weeks.

The cotton crop is also late and in many places it is coming up slow, resulting in bad stands. In ground that was listed before the April frosts and in ground that was not plowed until after the frosts there is no possibility of a stand until there is a season. This will necessarily make the crop late and the usual summer drought will cut it very short.

George Reeves Killed.

One of the notorious Reeves brothers who planned and executed the famous Tompkinsville robbery in 1887, was shot through the heart while attempting to escape from Indiana officers last Saturday night. The following account of the affair is taken from the Courier Journal of Sunday:

Jasper, Ind., May 11.—In a desperate encounter with a Deputy Sheriff, George Reeves was shot to death tonight near Huntington while being taken from Jeffersonville reformatory to Jasper, where he and his brother John were to be placed on trial for a murder committed nearly twenty years ago. Sheriff Castrop arrived in Huntington with the prisoners in custody at 8 o'clock this evening. In company with Deputy Sheriff George Castrop and John T. Hutter the prisoners were started in a carriage to Jasper.

Up to the time the carriage reached a point three miles from Huntington neither of the prisoners gave the officers any trouble. During the time required in covering the distance, however, the men had quietly worked the handcuffs from their wrists, and, as the carriage started across a high bridge over the Patoka river both men sprang to their feet and leaped from the carriage.

John Reeves was quickly overtaken, bound hand and foot, again placed in the carriage. Deputy Sheriff Hutter followed pursuit of George Reeves. He fired twice from a rifle at the fleeing prisoner without effect, then finally making an attempt to climb a steep embankment to get into dense woods. Here Deputy Sheriff overtook him and a hand-to-hand encounter ensued, Reeves using his handcuffs, which were still fastened to one wrist. In an endeavor to break the Sheriff's brains out. Hutter, feeling that Reeves was about to get the upper hand, made a final struggle and succeeded in throwing off the adversary's hold so that he could reach for the revolver he carried in a rear pocket. Grasping the weapon he leveled it full at Reeves' breast and pulled the trigger.

Reeves was shot through the heart and fell back on the deputy's body with a bullet through his heart.

Why He Never Married.

"Mr. Buchanan, who was the first bachelor elected to the Presidency, and had deliberately given himself a life of celibacy," writes William Perline in the May Ladies' Home Journal.

"In the days when he was a young lawyer of Lancaster Pennsylvania, had loved Miss Coleman, a beautiful daughter of a citizen of that town. They had been engaged to be married when one day he was surprised to receive from her a request to release her from the promise.

According to Mr. George Ticknor Curtis, the separation originated in a misunderstanding on the part of the lady, who was usually sensitive, over a small matter exaggerated by giddy and indolent tongues.

Some fifteen years afterwards he was sent to the Philadelphia and there died suddenly. Throughout the rest of his life, or nearly a half century, Mr. Buchanan was not known to have revealed to anybody the circumstances of this romantic tragedy. He would only say that it had only changed his hopes and plans, and had led him more deeply into politics as distraction from his grief.

In his old age, long after he had retired permanently to private life, he called attention to the package containing, he said, the papers and relics which would explain the causes of his youthful sorrow, and which he preserved reverently with the idea of revealing them before his death.

But when he died and his will was read it was found that he had decided that the package should be burned without being opened, and his injunction was obeyed."

Wm. L. Boyce, of Sharpsburg, a student in the Kentucky College of Medicine, Louisville, was stabbed to death by a man, John W. Hutter, on the steps of the hospital on Friday afternoon.

In this issue appears the announcement of Mr. T. F. Gowen, of Gradyville, for the Democratic nomination for County Judge. Mr. Gowen is present magistrate in his district and has all along performed the important duties of his office with courage and fidelity, and should be selected to the position he aspires to. He would pursue a similar fair and impartial course. He is a Democrat and cheerfully pledges his support to the ticket as will be made by the Democrats of the county.

She is now in perfect health and does not use glasses for ordinary work. She is very much interested in what is going on in the country, and likes for her children who are living in distant States to keep in touch with the times here, hence she gave an order for two copies of the News last week.

We are authorized to announce that a fair will be held in this town some time in August and to notify the people of this section to shape up their stock for exhibition, for good premiums will be hung up. Also the ladies should arrange home-made articles for premiums. From the tie pickle to the full grown pumpkin and from the most delicate embroidery to a counterpane. Mrs. W. L. Farris, who was one of the best known women in the Case Valley country, died Wednesday morning, the 13th inst. She was about eighty years old and was a lady highly respected for her Christian character. She was a kind and sympathetic neighbor, ever ready to help those who needed her assistance. No death ever occurred about Case Valley that brought more genuine sorrow, every body expressing the deepest sympathy for the husband, who has now reached his eighty-second year, and, seemingly, when he is mostly in need of a companion he is bereft by the dispensation of Him who moves in a mysterious way. May he look to the giver of all that is good for consolation in this hour of his bereavement. To a person who has grown old from life to the grave seems but a step, hence the importance of preparing for death while in health. The deceased had been a devoted follower of her Saviour for many years, therefore, was ready when the summons came.

The M. & F. High School closed last Wednesday with the highest average daily attendance for several years. Prof. A. H. Ballard and wife have labored constantly for the school, and the results of their efforts are gratifying to the patrons and friends of the institution. We have not heard a single complaint that many are out of school in their praise of their worth as instructors and regret that we are not assured of their further connections with the school. In this connection we also desire to say that Rev. T. F. Walton, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, has been for the past few months, teaching several classes in the higher branches, giving perfect satisfaction. The principal for the next term is expected to have in a few days, and to begin active work for the session commencing in September.

Last Friday and Saturday the teachers who will be applicants for common schools in Adair county, were in Columbia. A finer body of young people is not often seen together. The young men were in advance of the young women in attractiveness taken into consideration, were not behind them in intelligence, a statement that the male teachers readily admit. Columbia is proud of her teachers, believing that they will compare favorably with those of any county in the State. Instructing the young is an honorable calling, and those who have adopted teaching as a profession should feel proud of their avocation.

The closing of the M. & F. High School and a select class taught by Miss Fannie Garrett were properly celebrated in picnicking at the fair grounds last Thursday. The instructors, including Rev. T. F. Walton, who taught the deaf languages, were all there together with their schools, patrons and many other friends. The small children enjoyed romping in the new way, restrained, while the older ones indulged in hand-shaking and social chat. The dinner was as good as any community can get up and was very well prepared. Many more than were present. Mr. W. S. Barker had the entire crowd grouped and a kodak picture will be made.

The instruments that belonged to the Columbia Band have been sold to a couple of colored boys. They do not doubt that this month's salary and will be ready to make good music in a few weeks. The instruments were comparatively new and were sold much under their cost.
